

NANTES, Sept. 20.—Dreyfus arrived here this morning from Rennes, accompanied by his brother, M. Mathieu Dreyfus, the Chief of the Secret Police, M. Viguiet, and one policeman. The party traveled as ordinary passengers. The train reached the station at 8:17 o'clock A. M.

The Dreyfus brothers alighted on the platform first, followed by M. Viguiet, who inquired if they could have a private room. A waiter replying in the affirmative, the brothers entered a room and ordered two glasses of milk, while M. Viguiet and the policeman remained outside in the public bar.

Inquiry was then made concerning the Bordeaux train, which, they were informed, left at 8:58 o'clock A. M. All four then entered a first-class compartment, in which there were already other passengers. It was intended, by thus refraining from any attempt to secure privacy, to avoid exciting curiosity, and this, apparently, succeeded. M. Viguiet and the policeman only went as far as the first stop, Vertou, whence they returned to Nantes to catch the 12:13 o'clock P. M. express for Paris, leaving the brothers to continue their journey alone. It is believed the Dreyfuses alighted at an intermediate station to take a fresh start in an unknown direction.
